

ENDING MALNUTRITION FOR ALL

Enhancing Progress for achieving SDG 2 by a re-set and re-affirmation of the Global Nutrition Targets

The world faces a hunger and nutrition crisis. Over 780 million people face chronic hunger, 45 million children suffer from acute malnutrition, and 42 million people are on the brink of famine.

The global nutrition targets set for 2025 have catalyzed action, but due to conflict, climate change, and socioeconomic shocks, these targets will not be met.

Join us to discuss strategies to progress towards ending malnutrition, including extending the global nutrition targets, renewing the Decade of Action on Nutrition, expanding services through Community Health Workers, and amplifying the priorities of local, national and global partners ahead of the Paris Nutrition for Growth Summit.
